houses

First row: Y. Dunkley-Clark, E. Alatorre Deantes, J. Walsh, M. S. (A.) Chen, Y. E. (C.) Lee, M. Bonneau.
Second row: N. Caballero Salcido, M. Franco de la Torre, A. P. Perez Hernandez, V. Borrego, F. Rouillier, Mrs. Harding.
Third row: Mrs. Lowry, S. Arsenault, H. Cunningham, R. Zeitlinger, J. Campeau, C. Nouvel, C. Liang, J. Chan, J. Chan.
Fourth row: C. Nouvel, X. (E.) Li, R. Hadlock, H. Wedge, E. Kuhn, V. Iyakaremye, G. White.
Fifth row: Mme Turcotte, N. Gama Bajos, E. Eustrom, C. Nauzin, H. Crawford, N. Russell.

Once upon a time, in a land far far away, was a house much like yours and mine. The only difference was that it was massive. I mean, like, immensely huge; not just because of the gargantuan size of the building, but also because of the 32 princesses packed inside. Usually, 32 princesses and NO butlers would have pulled each other's extensions out, but these girls got along like a house on fire. This was probably due to the fact that the house did catch fire. On the 3rd of June, 2013, Glass House ignited due to the spontaneous combustion of four beds simultaneously. The princesses, therefore, were all left homeless in the middle of the rainforest... cuz like... the house was in the rainforest. ...Did I not mention that?

Romy and Jessica, of course, took charge immediately, running off barefoot into the abyss. Jessica looked for scraps of food left over from animal kills and leaves for shelter whilst Romy searched for can-tabs for her new dress. Rachelle called her boyfriend to tell him she was running a little late seeing as she'd taken longer than expected to get ready, and it was a long swim. Taylor took a deep breath and filled up on all the foods she wasn't allowed to eat, which was in fact everything, before kicking a ball around with Savannah. Ally went looking for her shoes as her feet were starting to get grubby from all the nature.

Fred had a different approach, trying to fool monkeys with her gymnastic skills with the hopes of joining their tribe. It did not work. She sat down disappointed.

Honour did her best to cheer her up with different coloured nail polish before getting bored and dying her hair for the 5th time that hour. Nats, Marianna and Valeria all sat in a circle giving each other French braids as Jodi walked around collecting sweaters to layer up. Cindy perched in a tree hoping to escape from all the butterflies whilst calling for Yonna and Jessica every time she saw a mosquito. Joey started finding scraps of food for their survival but saw Cindy and died of laughter. R.I.P. Princess Joeyoe Chan SuperDuper Man.

Strange and distorted noises resonated from the forest as Catherine calmed her nerves with K-Pop a few miles deep. Marie and Vanessa took a long walk to find her but came back empty-handed. Ana, Nicola and Emma also emerged from the woods looking vacant and slightly giddy.

Capucine calmed her sister, Cassiopée, down with heavy tunes from the good old days whilst Margaux hogged the only mirror available to fix her hair. Christina and Haley giggled over the incredible possibility that Chase Crawford may randomly visit and see them in these rags so unfit for such fair princesses. Ellen, on the other hand, stared off into the distance, occasionally uttering the words, "awwww, so pretty!"

Clémentine complained about the state in which she was being treated which was soon cut off by Elisa's quirt nudge; all this to the delight of a laughing Natalia. Suddenly, a wild Kat pounced from the depths of the deep, dark forest and chased Hannah away.

Luckily, Yonna, the head Princess, rode in on a white horse to save the day. She suggested all the adults join together in collaboration and ignore the advice of the barefoot mongrels, rebuilding the house from the ground up. And so it began.

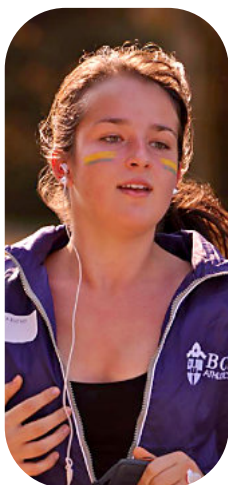

Julie said: "I think I may have something." And then Ms. Harding chimed, "I think I do too." Before they new it, Ms. Laramée, Mme Turcotte, Julie and Ms. Harding had finished the house.

Oh how they laughed, and how they cheered, and how they cried.

Some people may call it a zoo, others South, we call it home. And everyone's little habits and ways of being make this place special enough for us to call it home. It took us time to get used to each other, but as time flew by, friendships and brotherhoods came to bond us all as family.

Let me introduce to you our house:

Jorge: He is talking, someone tells him to be quiet. "Make me!"

Amro: Sunday 5 pm. Joe, can we still order?

Benjamin: 30 people are waiting to play FIFA. He comes in and says: "I go next!"

Aldaco: Walks around in his boxers.

Nicolas Q: Wanna fight? Nonononono!

Mackenzie: Sitting on the toilet (still?).

Nicolas I.: 6 am Sunday morning, in the common room playing PS3.

Jose Alfonso: It's 8:59 pm. Can you open tuck?

Jose: Watching Netflix.

Jack: In the gym with Alex M.

Alex L.: You're so annoying!

Cameron: Listening to epic rap music.

JP: Fighting with Alf.

Claudio: Making noodles 5 minutes before lights out.

Ivan: El rey del bosque (king of the forest).

Tylar: Running outside.

Jeff: Still working on his six pack.

Mateo: Getting hyper! (With Claudio)

Marco: Comes in when we're about to close tuck, asks the price of everything and leaves.

Will: Gone with Sam.

Hammad: (Still sleeping.)

Alex M.: "No", Jose Alfonso, "I don't have the key for tuck."

Mr. Hickie: (Epic shouting before lights out) Five minutes!!!

Joe: (Pooh) "You're nuts! Joes."

Adam: Jeopardy time!

Mr. Bray: "You know the rules!"

Mrs. Bray: "I don't like you playing those kinds of games." (Call of Duty, etc.)

Thank you,
Your Poohs

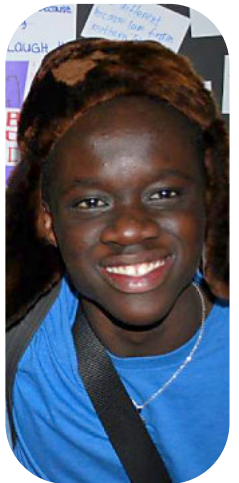

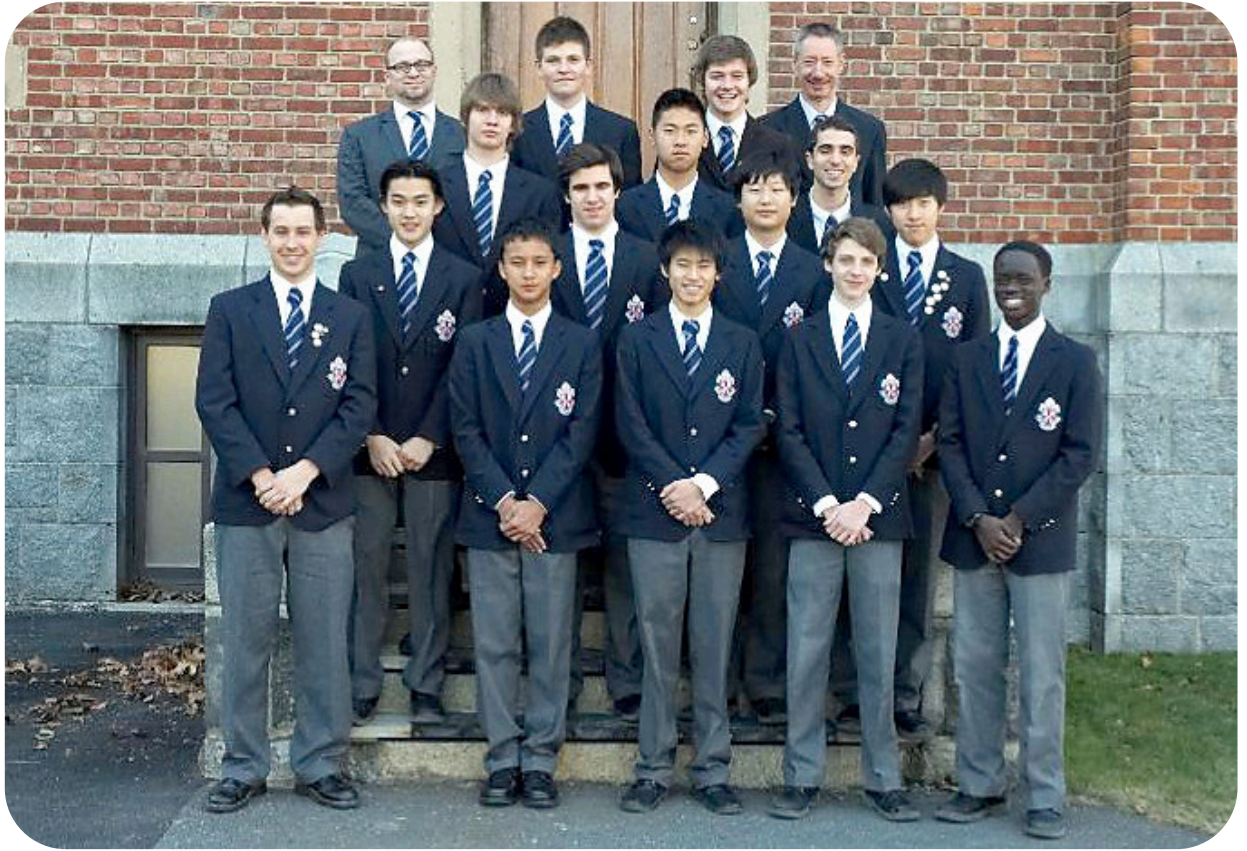

To Joe: Words cannot describe how thankful we all are. You did things that were above your responsibilities. More than a chaperone, you were a friend.

"So much to talk about. What a year with my boys J. Those sleepless nights with friends. Staying up with my homies cookin' noodles and poppin' bottles in the kitchen. Water of course."

"How can I forget my flights to Europe. Lego Land! Oh and let's not forget the Mooning Pyramid, SM and DT ;)."

"Sir, do you have any salt? And somebody has used my pan without washing it afterwards!"

"Is there Lenn Leave today?"

"Wrestling bears with my bare hands, no pun intended hahahahahaha me so funny."

"But my room IS tidy; it's just that we have lots of stuff."

"Can I have tuck?" - "No: dinner will be soon." - "Well, can I just buy something to drink then?"

"No, Real Madrid is definitely NOT the better team!"

"Sir, can I ask a question? It's okay if the answer is no... and do you know somewhere I can get a bicycle pedal?"

"Have you got the list?"

"I know it's past lights out, but I was just using my computer to check my schedule for tomorrow...."

"This is the place to be because it is generally SILENTnQUIET."

"Dishes in the kitchen won't magically wash themselves. Minecraft is the best."

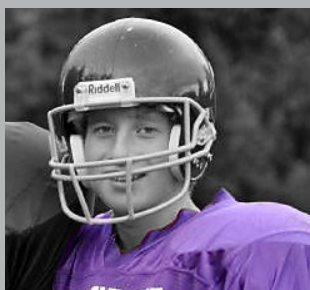

"I don't know where to start. It was a great year and I had fun. Especially those late nights with the boys playing W.O.W. and other fun computer games. I also won't forget those flights to Europe and those endless fights with that meddling Bear! And remember the time the moon was so bright it looked like a pyramid? Ahh good times!"

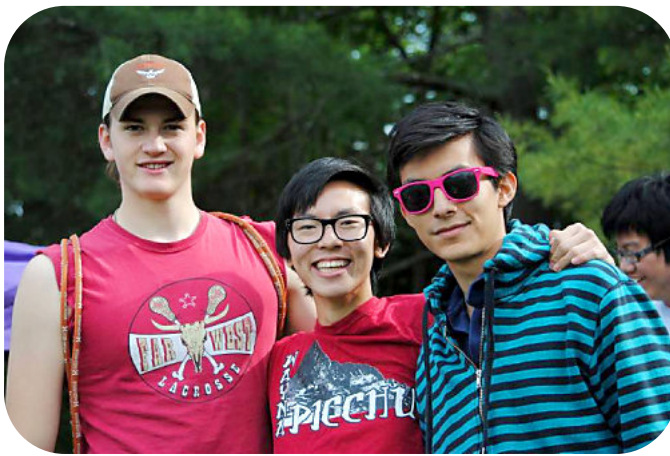

"It's been a blast sharing the dorm with you guys this year! Through our football Sundays (Niko) our gaming weekends (Max) and our countless Kraft Dinners, I wish we could do it all over again, but that's life. Catch you guys later!"

Over the last couple of days BCS athletes have been capturing multiple victories. The Golf team won their final tournament in Milbey; the Jr. Boys Rugby team won their final game against Massey by a long shot; the Tennis team won 4 Golds & 4 Silvers and came home with the ETIAC banner for the season; and the Sr. Girls Rugby team, after a slow start came up winning the ETIAC Championships against Stanstead for the second year in a row! A fantastic finish to the Spring Crease term.

las vegas rugby 7's tournament

The senior girl's rugby team travelled to Las Vegas, Nevada during the February break in order to compete in the Las Vegas Invitational 7's Tournament. It was a five-day trip filled with competition, watching professionals play and some sightseeing. This trip did not disappoint! Our girls did BCS proud finishing 4th out of 10 teams, losing to Team British Columbia twice and Notre Dame High School once. Both teams play year round and were filled with provincial athletes. On Friday, the group headed off to Sam Boyd Stadium to watch day 1 of the professional 7's tournament. All weekend the team was spoiled with phenomenal rugby and front row seats for all the action. On the last afternoon, several players and coaches took a trip to the Hoover Dam to see its sheer beauty. It was a long flight home but well worth the trek. The girls were wonderful ambassadors for the school and really should be proud of their efforts on and off the field! Major thank you to Anne Holland, Monica Schafer, The Leblonds, The Barritts, The Waynes and The Coopers.

BES CLASS OF 2013

head prefect's speech

Members of the school board, teachers, staffs, parents, friends and fellow graduates of Bishop's College School Class of 2013, what a wonderful afternoon! It is my absolute pleasure and honour to stand here and to not only talk about our years at BCS on behalf of my peers, but to speak to them as well.

Dear parents, on behalf of every student, thank you! From the bottom of our hearts; thank you! Without you, we know that we could only have come so far. Whether you helped us emotionally, financially or intellectually, you have shaped us into the people before you, draped in flowing gowns. Without you all here to comfort us or bring us to buy our first pencil case and tiny beige backpacks, we surely wouldn't be sitting here today. Plenty of you have flown over from other countries, or perhaps crossed a bridge, but either way, you have all shown an interest in our lives.

Teachers and staff members, you've helped us in ways that we may not realize. Instead of sculpting our futures for us, you have helped us direct our own paths. You've not only given us enough wisdom to fill a book but taught us exactly how to use it. You've shown us how to argue, solve complicated puzzles step by step and how to face the big wide world. I believe students are like leaches. They are a bit of a nuisance, but once they've had their fill, they fall off into the watery depths. It has been a great pleasure being that parasite. I hope our relationship was at least commensalism.

To the students, I have been with some of you for six years and some for only one. But the memories of the last 10 months that we spent together are something that we all have in common and will always have in common. Do you guys remember Movember? Who'd have thought that Mr White could still look like a docile puppy with a biker moustache. Or that Charles De Saint Jean would still have a head after pie-ing Mr Hall in the face? This year may have been hard for us all, but these are the memories I want you to think of when you remember BCS. I don't want you to think of the Send-ins and green and red books. I want you to think of the anecdotes that kept you coming back, break after break.

I could talk about the teachers, the opportunities and the activities. But most of all, I want you to remember each other; your friends and peers. Because we are the friends that will be remembered. We may not always be together, but when people ask how high school was, and when we tell our children about the toughest times that we overcame, we'll think about this; about each other.

For those who will be returning to BCS next year, carpe diem. Seize the day. Take advantage of every single opportunity and cherish your friends because this will not last. Your mission, should you choose to accept it, is to protect the school and its honour. Keep in mind that this is where many of us grew up and realized our dreams. For years, this has been our home. Now, it's yours.

For the graduates who will not be coming back or who are leaving this place, I have one thing that I would like you to take away with you. The average life expectancy of a human is 80 years. I remember reading that if you were to turn our lifetime into a 24-hour clock, one year would be equal to 18 minutes. Therefore, since most of our graduates are 18, if we do the calculations, this would only be 5:24 in the morning. Most people are still dreaming, not even awake yet preparing for the day. They have no idea what to expect, but they are slowly becoming conscious. No one starts their day by deciding that they have already failed. So why start our lives the same way?

That's why I stand before you and say; Good morning. We've done it! We've already completed the first chapter. We are rising from our slumber and taking the world by storm. Well done, class of 2013! Now let's do it!

Emilie Coote

It is hard to believe that six full years have flown by at BCS. It seems like only a short while ago I was a young Form II student excited for what high school had in store. My time spent at BCS was no disappointment but was filled with a great number of opportunities and experiences. It is hard to imagine a life without BCS as it has been such a central part of my life and I am truly going to miss it. The great times and the friends that I have made at BCS are memories and relationships that I believe will last a lifetime.

Ye Eun (Cindy) Lee

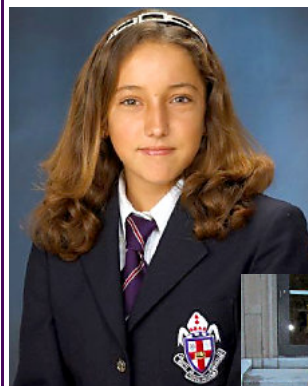

Yes, I'm a lifer; I've spent 1/3 of my life at BCS. As I often tell people, coming to this place has by far been the best decision of my life. BCS has led a young Korean girl who didn't know anything to become a mature woman who is now prepared to step out into the real world in front of her. BCS has provided me opportunities to challenge myself and I've learned lifelong lessons from those challenges. I've met countless amazing people that I will never forget. I am a proud lifer at BCS because this is where I found my identity and this is the place that raised me into who I am right now.

Apolline Montoya

Christopher Rae

Being a lifer at BCS has taught me more relevant life lessons outside of class than within. I discovered what it truly means to be you. What it feels to love, and let love go. How a society doesn't always work the way it should. I learned that no matter how hard you work, there will always be someone working harder, or doing better, but that doesn't mean give up. Life's tough, and you don't always get what you want. BCS rarely gave me what I wanted, yet six years later, here I am, still on two feet.

Jakob Unis-Thibault

The past 6 years at BCS have been a great experience. I've had a great time playing all different sports. I met so many different students from all over the world. BCS has made me realize that no matter where you come from; we're all pretty much the same and can have a great time together.

prefects

Lots of memories being shared this week as our Prefects bid adieu to BCS - for some, their home for 5 or 6 years. Thanks to a great group of students who have helped lead our entire BCS community throughout the 2012-2013 year.

- June 12, 2013.

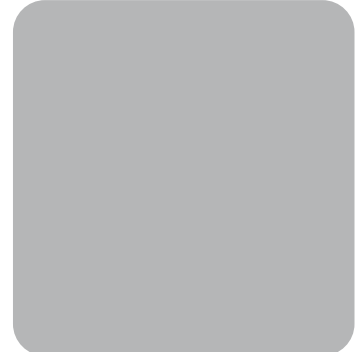

"From this moment and on, you are on duty until the day of handing your ties to next year's prefects." This was the statement that Mr. Hall mentioned at the end of year 2012 and since then, the final chapter of our BCS career has begun. We all simply started as colleagues who were in the same grade. Most of us didn't know each other really well and none of us expected to feel the way we feel now. In less than a year, we have transformed ourselves from a simple group into a small family; no, we don't spend all of our free time together, or eat every meal with one another, but we relate to one another on a certain level that other students can't. We feel comfortable together and each of us is aware that we always have someone there to help us when we need a trustworthy person by our side.

At the beginning of this year, all the prefects gathered together in order to develop stronger teamwork and leadership abilities. We also settled upon a set of goals to achieve before the end of our BCS careers. As a team we made many decisions and overcame multiple difficulties. Now that our goals are achieved and our purpose is fulfilled we are proud to say that we did our best. We leave this place in the hope that our actions have contributed by setting examples and high standards for the future prefects. We have no regrets because everything we did, we did for the good of the school.

The message that became our slogan for the rest of the year was "TO THE BRIDGE!" The story behind this slogan is about perseverance and pushing through no matter the difficulty. During our kayaking voyage at prefect camp, we were told that if you see a bridge then you are very close to the end. Our voyage turned out to be long and very wet, as many people were flipped repeatedly and there was a thunderstorm fast approaching. However, whenever someone was done or wanted to give up, one of us would yell "TO THE BRIDGE!" and it would give us the energy to paddle faster and harder to reach our destination. Now, this slogan has stuck with us as we have all been through difficulties and obstacles where we wanted to give up. Yet we leaned on each other, giving each other support to push through to that final bridge.

This final chapter at BCS without a doubt was an amazing year, not only because we are a group of prefects, but we got closer to one another. We had ideals and we had goals, which we accomplished proudly in the end. The things that make us happy throughout the school year are the times that when teachers comment on how well we performed in this morning's chapel; the message we conveyed was very well coordinated and distributed, or the moments when students come running along and congratulating us on our contribution to today's activity. Seeing gleaming faces and people enjoying their time at school makes us as prefects proud, because everything you do, and we do matters: Everything Matters.

One last round of "to the bridge" ...ready... 1.2.3... TO THE BRIDGE!!!

In my remarks at the Graduation Ceremony, I reflected on my return to BCS, on the School today, and on the engagement of faculty and students. When I think about dedication, compassion, and service to the community, no one has been more exemplary than Geraldine McGurk, who retires as school nurse after thirty-five years of outstanding service to the School and its families.

And so, it is my pleasure to dedicate this issue of the Yearbook to Geraldine McGurk.

Schools such as BCS are extremely busy places. We work hard to provide relevant, challenging programs, led by inspiring teachers, coaches and supervisors, who motivate students to engage fully and positively as they learn to become increasingly more responsible and independent learners.

We don't apologize for the hard work we expect of students, but we are often amazed and rewarded for how much they seem capable of doing consistently well throughout the year. For that we admire you and we thank you.

In the coming years, we will be working to devise an overall strategic plan, a strategic financial plan and a strategic enrolment management plan for the School. At the same time, we will continue to ensure that our academic, extra-curricular and residential life programs are the best that they can be to challenge and inspire you, our students.

We are all working together to help you succeed, and I would like to thank the faculty and staff for their stellar work and exemplary commitment to BCS.

Lastly, a word to the graduates. You have engaged, grown and matured. BCS has tried to equip you with skills and knowledge that will help you as you get on with your post secondary lives. We are confident you have learned how to be part of a community – how to contribute to its success. Take the best of what you have experienced here and do good things in your family and community lives.

Again, we congratulate you and we thank you.

- William Mitchell
